"Gangs" are characteristic of San Angelo High School. Their congregation jams the campus, the entries, the halls.

Student Council Members Averyt, Marshall, Goldston, Harwell, Jett, Elmore and Maresh confer with Mrs. Todd, sponsor.

A real school knows the spirit of cooperation, of sharing responsibilities, of working together. That togetherness is a tradition with us.

As members of committees, when groups gather to plan, or promote, or improve, or decide on a policy, pupils voice their ideas. This sharing, this democratic way of doing, this "we" feeling, m a k e s our activities successful.

Decisions are made by the Student Council that keep pupil-teacher relations on this "we" level. Senior affairs are in the hands of the Senior Activities Committee.

"Let's do it," not "You do it" is our slogan at SAHS.

together, in classes, learning and doing.

A TEACHER-PUPIL relationship should be above the "you-do-it-because-I-said-it" plane. Guidance is necessary . . . . but its effectiveness is in direct proportion to the spirit of understanding, co-operation and real friendship existing between instructor and student.

An instructor whose efforts have resulted in the building of good citizens as well as good students is Miss Ora Curry. Her contact with SAHS students through the years has left a lasting impression.

When teachers are like her, the spirit of inspiration and achievement prevails in classes.

Seniors Are The Class, Of

because we have begun to take on responsibilities, and to help with the activities of the school. Just as we are leaving, we begin to appreciate SAHS.

The Class Of '48 Looks Back

We've come a long way since we first swung lunch boxes over our shoulders and timidly passed notes. The pigtails that used to be plopped into inkwells and the lanky, ruddy-faced species that delighted in throwing spitwads have slowly changed with each grade we've progressed. After eleven years, we've finally understood what a school is and for what it stands. As we look back, we know that there could surely never be other teachers, another class, another school quite so wonderful.

We wandered into San Angelo High School in September, 1945. The grownup airs we had acquired from being "the elders" in grade school and Junior High were soon changed by the new surroundings and different faces. We suddenly felt like children around the upperclassmen. The Juniors seemed witty and aware of our inferior rating as "green Sophs," and the Seniors seemed dignified, much superior, and very smooth. To be a Sophomore seemed then the lowest stage of life. Now we know it is.

Charlie Bludworth, whom we elected president of our class, lead us in organizing. Other officers were Robert Ann Keys, vice-president; Abby Mee, secretary; and Donald Patton, treasurer.

We soon became accustomed to this strange new world, and caught the living, vibrant school spirit which surrounded us. As the year progressed, we could almost keep in step with the Juniors. We felt pretty big and important when we were allowed to add representatives to the Student Council. Deloris Wilbanks, Mary Elmore, Charlie Bludworth, and Boyce Perry were our choices to represent us. We also selected a girl to help lead us in yells as we cheered our fightin' O r a n g e and Blue through the season of '45. We were mighty proud of Abby Mee, who was our selection. Jimmy Livingston also made us proud that year. He was sent as a debater to the state meet—'long with the Seniors.

Although we didn't take part in the planning of the annual spring dances and we weren't supposed to be in on the Junior-Senior fight, we had our fun in attending and watching. Through all these new activities we "learned the ropes," and we were anxious for our Junior year to begin, though we'd come to love our carefree Soph days, filled with gayiety and not so much responsibility.

When we became Juniors we were able at last to participate more fully in the swing of high school. It was fun scaring Sophomores and feeling our superiority. Mrs. Todd and Mr. Fahrenbruch accompanied us into our Junior year as they assumed the new positions of counselors. Clifford Jett was selected as president of our class, and filling other offices were Marolyn Powell, vice-presiden; Dee Averyt, secretary-treasurer; and Donald Patton, reporter. Hazel Stein, Loyce Perry, Richard Harvey and Boyce Perry were elected to the Student Council We also chose Evelyn Oglesby to accompany the four other cheer leaders at our pep rallies, bonfires, and at our seasonal games.

We did a lot of things our junior year as "first times." We'll always remember the special train that was chartered to Sweetwater for the Bobcat-Mustang game. It brought our whole school into one big group and made us feel the special something called "School Spirit," that bound us together into one team. Next a football sweetheart was chosen for the first time to be presented when the Mexico City Y. M. C. A team met the Bobcats in our stadium. The football team selected their sweethart from our class. She was Loys Gandy. We were also first to order our senior rings during our junior year so that they'd be ready n' waiting the coming fall. The blue, red, and black assortments of stones from which we chose our ring sets reminded us that we were on our way to "seniordom"

As a school is made up of many talented students, so during our junior year we found many such "treasures." We can never forget the chills we got when Hootie Rutledge sang "Night and Day" or the noise of foot-beating and cheering to the rhythm of boogie-woogie, played by Mary Frances Holloway. Billie Tom Godwin was sent to state meet in extemporaneous speaking, and Gloria Tharp placed second in the state American Legion oratory contests. R. G. DeBerry proved his ability in tennis and Clifford Jett in high-jumping when they both were sent to state meets. Lorene Michalopulos obtained rating with her violin in the state band contests. Mary Elmore showed a journallsic knack and was chosen assistant editor of the Campus Corral.

The inevitable—our Junior-Senior fight—we'll never forget. We placed our flag on top, along with a flagpole covering of grease, glass, and nails. Of course, when the high n' mighty Seniors returned from their Kid Day outing and launched their surprise attack, our position was abandoned. The scars we are still carrying from that night of scratches and bruises we behold with pride, however, knowing the Senior class of '47 carries them, too. (Maybe they didn't get as many, but it was a good fight.)

Peace was declared afterwards when we gave our Junior Prom honoring the Seniors. The Seniors' Belle and Beau, whom our class chose, were Bobbie Burns and Johnny Humphrey. They were presented and crowned amidst ivy and roses. We also selected four Duchesses from our class to attend the Belle and Beau. Madolyn Powell, Evelyn Oglesby, Patricia Wright, and Loys Gandy were the four duchesses, crowned with carnations and roses.

Our Junior year gone, at last we became Seniors. As leaders of the school, we began our final year with registration. We plunged into work with our hearts set on commencement.

Clifford Jett was elected again to presidency of our class as well as Student Council president. Accompanying Clifford as leaders of us mighty Seniors were Donald Patton, vice-president; Barbara Filleman, secretary; and Mary Elmore, reporter. Mary Elmore and Dee Aveyt were elected to positions on the Student Council.

Britton Smith, Bobcat guard and captain, led our fighting gridiron team through the '47 season. At the end of the year, Richard Harvey, quarterback, was named the most conscientious player. Abby Mee was chosen by the Drill Squad as head cheer leader, assisted by Evelyn Oglesby. Elizabeth McGowen, Senior alternate cheerleader, carried the Drill Squad's banner.

One of the special attractions which has made our Senior year the "best-yet" was the trip to Mexico City when the Bobcats played the Y.M.C.A. eleven. The reception we got when our special train arrived in the Mexico City station will long be remembered. The football game (which we won 13-6), floating gardens, the Waldorf, the Blue Room, the El Morocco, sight seeing trips—all are things which gave us memories we'll cherish forever.

In elections and officers for the school we have led the way this year—as Seniors should. The Bobcat Band selected Charles Briggs as drum major, John Netleton assistant drum major, and Jack Tidwell president. Madolyn Powell was chosen as their sweetheart, and Ann Warren ranked second as alternate sweetheart. Patricia Wright and Maryo Conerly carried the American and Texas flags for the band boys.

Heading the Campus Corral staff this year have been Mary Elmore, editor, and Loys Gandy, business manager, Maymegene Williams was appointed editor of the Westerner, and Jeannine Young was chosen business manager.

After football season ended, basketball was eagerly started. Clifford Jett and Lynn Abbott were co-captains of our Bobcat basketball team this year. The pep rallies and the spirit we showed at our games were outstanding, and basketball was indeed accepted by SAHS and the whole city.

Hobby clubs were among the new additions this year. We each belonged to a club, which added to the excitement of a new way of acquaintance to some prospective heart throb or a new chance for slipping over to the bakery, in case Mr. Redfield was out of sight.

Gradually spring came, we felt our Senior days coming to a close. It was a little sad to think of standing under the traditional mesquite tree, walking down the hall with some "special," passing notes, seeing and being with our class as a body for the last time.

One by one the wonderful events of our Senior Year—the Senior Banquet, the Junior Prom, Kid Day, the Junior-Senior fight, the Senior Play, the annual band concert, Baccalaureate, and at last, Commencement slipped by. We should note that at the Junior Prom Loyce Gandy reigned as Belle and Boyce Perry as Beau, with Duchesses Nancy Hardin, Jane Nix, Annette Morgan and Joanne Boothe in attendance. We were caught into the gay whirl of Seniors, and now we have finally finished it.

These days we've spent at San Angelo High are inexpressible. We've come to love this school and its people. Although we've fussed and fretted for graduation day, we now know we'll always wish we could "do over" these high school days.

We've been proud this year to lead the school, and we now hand it to the Juniors, who we know will be just as proud when their time comes. As we say goodbye, proudly yet sadly, we know that San Angelo High will always remain a part of us, even as we will surely remain a part of her. Thus we will sing our song for the last time, with a thrill that comes from deep inside our hearts "All hail to you, dear SAHS, hail to the orange and the blue. Thy sons and daughters love thee well. Their love for you wll never grow old."

The Class of '49 takes a backward peek before girding for the final plunge . . . entrance into that exalted state known as Seniordom.

Junior officers: Secretary Hardin, Vice-President Abbott, President Brewster, Reporter Morgan.

What is a class?

That's a hard question to answer. You could tell about the obvious things—that a class is a bunch of kids in the same grade, kids who yell their heads off at games and cram for exams, kids who stuff banana splits and cherry cokes and marshmallow sundaes down their iron-clad stomachs every day.

But a class is more than that. A class is comradeship and a hundred other things that can't be defined. And all these qualities the 1948 Junior class has in abundance.

We began as a class back in junior high, 1943. There were only 33 of us then, and we felt lonely and uncomfortable in our new surroundings. But with an increase in numbers came a corresponding rise in morale. By the time we regretfully departed from ninth grade, we had more than tripled in size to a healthy 108.

Came autumn, 1946, and round-eyed and open-mouthed we ascended into San Angelo High School. At first we huddled like sheep in the halls, awed by such overpowering personalities as Miss Penny Floyd, Josie O'Neal, and Mr. Claude Wooley. Organization became a necessity, and soon we were united under President Joe Guttery, Vice-President Richard Palmer, and Secretary Nancy Hardin, all ably sponsored by Mr. E. E. Young.

In our sophomore year we learned humility—the hard way. That hangover from the ninth grade, superiority, was completely annihilated. We longed for the utter sophistication of the lordly Seniors and the wittiness of the Juniors. After patient suffering the social stigma was finally lifted, and we passed from Untouchable Sophomores to Gay Juniors.

We entered our Junior year feeling brighter and not so painfully naive. Our first act was to elect as class officers Lee Brewster, president; Glenda Abbott, vice-president; Nancy Hardin, secretary; and Annette Morgan, reporter, under the sponsorship of Miss Martha Brown. To the student council we sent Marcelle Harwell and Don Goldston.

As a class we were host at the Junior Prom, planned by the all-junior prom committee Even in activities expressly for the Seniors we have managed a part. The bravest participated in the junior-senior fight; at Baccalaureate and Commencement some of our members served as ushers.

Being a Senior has its advantages, we know. Senior rings, plays, banquets, and Kid Day are fascinating, of course. But somehow, being a Junior has a magic of its own. Juniors are through with the lowliness and humility of Sophomores, yet havcn't known the staggering finality of being a Senior.

Sophomore Shavings

Those Sophomore shavers also have a past . . . and believe it or not, it begins to look like they have a future. Hold your breath and let's take a quick look-see at the antics of the Class of '50.

Soph officers: Vice-President Marshall, President Maresh, Secretary Rice, Reporter Schleyer.

All right—so we are Sophomores! But in a class so crammed with beautiful girls, handsome boys, and intelligent students, it's an honor. Why, in our class we have potential presidents, movie stars, orators, statesmen, school teachers, journalists, opera singers, businessmen—everything, in fact, that you could think of besides criminals and morons.

One look at our past and present accomplishments shows that it isn't all bragging, either We could list our achievements in junior high, but it's what we've done in SAHS that we're proud of. Take, for instance, our class officers. Lillie Maresh, president, is the only girl class president in the school. Helping Lillie are Dave Marshall, vice-president; Don Rice, secretary-treasurer, and Rastus Schleyer, reporter. all ably sponsored by Mr. E. E. Young.

In guiding the student body we've had a hand, too. We elected Lillie Maresh and Dave Marshall to the Student Council, and sent them to the state-wide council convention held in San Antonio in February. To help cheer the fighting Bobcats on to victory, we selected Gay Blanks and Sally Ruttle as Sophomore cheerleader and alternate. One of our biggest thrills came when it was announced that class members Pat Hall and Clifford Rowland would pilot the 1949 basketball team as co-captains. In the speech department, Gregg Metcalf was awarded first prize in an American Legion sponsored oratorical contest, and went on to represent the county in a district contest.

Our biggest job this year, however, has been getting adjusted to high school life. We think we've got off to a good start, and though sometimes we've been the object of sneers and laughs from the lordly Juniors and Seniors, all of us feel justified in coming back with —"all right, so we are Sophomores*"

A School Is People . . .

Athletes, book worms, "joiners", even a scholar now and then . . . and some are bound to win more favor with their fellows than others.

By that most democratic of all processes—the secret ballot—the Westerner has turned the spotlight on these favorites of San Angelo High School. You know them by their personalities, their friendliness, their leadership. You know them and you like them, for you chose them as "tops" for the school year.

Here are your 1948 favorites.

together, in activities, putting things across.

Dreams become realities, ideas become scripts, rehearsals become finished productions, projects become moneymakers, schemes become successes, beginnings become triumphs.

Whether the job is publications—in that madhouse, the Campus Corral office—or dramatics, or music, or any other of our numerous school organizations, co-operation is the spirit that makes work, play; and plans, successes.

SENIOR PLAY

THE Class of '48 chose as the annual senior play Jane Kendall's "Pride and Prejudice", and presented it at Municipal Auditorium March 11, under direction of Miss Vivian Chenault.

The play dealt with the earnest efforts of an ambitious mother to marry off her five daughters. The scene was 19th century England, and the cast was costumed in the colorful dress of that era. A packed house viewed the drawing-room comedy.

A SCHOOL IS PEOPLE . . .

Who's Who In SAHS

Editors, Student Council members, drum majors, cheer leaders, and just Beaus and Sweethearts—leaders in those activities that lift a school above readin', writin', and 'rithmetic routine—take their places in this Who's Who section of the 1948 Westerner.

THE YEAR'S ACTIVITY

CALLED "the unique group" in the Southern Association of Student Governments, SAHS's Student Council has proved its merit. Composed of only seven members, the council was unique from the standpoint of numbers, but found that a smaller body tends for greater efficiency.

The Student Council made two trips to council conventions; one to Corpus Christi, where prominent Texas school authorities were featured on such subjects as, "Is Cheating Inevitable?" and other student body problems.

San Antonio was the site of the second convention February 6 and 7. Meeting at convention headquarters at Thomas Jefferson High School, delegates heard panel discussions on "Effect of Young Marriages on the Home and Nation" and "Student Leaders—World Citizens."

One of the major achievements of the 1947-48 student council was publication of a student directory, which filled a long-felt need in SAHS.

A SCHOOL IS PEOPLE . .

Coaches and Players

together, in games, carrying the Orange and Blue of the Bobcats.

Whether under the floodlights of Bobcat Stadium or in the turmoil of Bobcat Gym, SAHS squads take with them into every game that spirit which has been a part of their training; the spirit of clean competition.

With Coach John Kiick's boys, it's also a spirit of determination to win the game for a great school and a great guy.

THE COACHING STAFF

WIN, LOSE OR DRAW . . .

BOBCAT athletic teams carry the Orange and Blue into combat against all comers with the confidence that comes of good conditioning, shrewd coaching and a canny analysis of opponents' weaknesses.

The "men on the bench" who sweat out the game harder than any player on the field are headed by Herschel R. (Red) Ramsey, athletic director and head football coach. The popular Ramsey, a Texas Tech product, has launched an athletic program destined to make Bobcat teams perennial thorns to competing District 3-AA squads.

THE SEASON

THE 1947 BOBCATS started slowly, dropping a 19-6 decision to Denison and tying Lubbock 13-13 before hitting their stride against a highly touted Mineral Wells team from District 9-AA. With the Mountaineers doped to win by a healthy margin, the Cats caused considerable eyebrow lifting by waltzing to an easy 24-13 victory.

On October 4 the Cats battled mile-high altitude and a hard dirt gridiron as well as the Mexico City YMCA Spitfires, but garnered a 13-6 win. The game highlighted a trip south of the border by a large number of Bobcat fans.

The Bobcats hardly had time to work out the travel kinks from the Mexico City trip before they opened District 3-AA play against Lamesa. Score: San Angelo 20, Lamesa 6.

Then came the tussle everybody was waiting for: San Angelo vs. the Odessa Bronco. The Bobcats battled the rampaging defending state champs on even terms for nearly three quarters before finally succumbing to sheer manpower, 40-6. A reversal of form brought a 33-13 win over Midland the following weekend, but Big Spring caught the Cats napping to sew up a 19-20 decision.

Sweetwater then was taken for a 14-12 thrashing, and the stage was set for the annual grudge bout against Abilene Eagles. Doped to lose, the Bobcats salvaged a 12--12 tie in a thriller that lived up to expectations of fans who look for anything to happen when Abilene and San Angelo clash. It usually does.

THE SEASON

THE 1948 Bobcat 'A' basketball team was one of four District 3-AA clubs qualifying for the tournament playoff, and pushed the Abilene Eagles to the limit before succumbing in the finals, 33 to 26. The game was a see-saw affair, with Abilene staging a last-minute rally that netted five points of their seven-point victory margin.

The Cats dropped an early game to Lake View, then played a steadily improved brand of ball throughout the remainder of the year with the exception of a brief mid-season slump.

THE SEASON

HUSTLE, spirit and a whole lot of ability combined to give the Bobcat 'B' basketball team an outstanding record during the 1948 season. Sixteen tilts of a 17-game schedule went into the "won" column, the loss being at the hands of Abilene, 38-41.

All boys playing on Coach Kiick's 'B' squad have one or more years of eligibility remaining. It looks like rough sledding in the next year or two for Bobcat cage opponents.

A SCHOOL IS PEOPLE . . .

Working, Playing, Loafing

To chronicle the history of a school year in San Angelo High School would necessitate telling the complete story of more than 800 individuals—their aims and accomplishments, their hopes and ambitions, their failures and successes.

Such a task obviously is beyond the means and scope of the Westerner.

But the staff has here attempted to set down in pictures and words a cross section of those myriad activities whose aggregate is called a school year . . . typified by Clark Wynne and Lloyd Cope, caught in a candid chorus rehearsal shot.

SOUTH OF THE BORDER

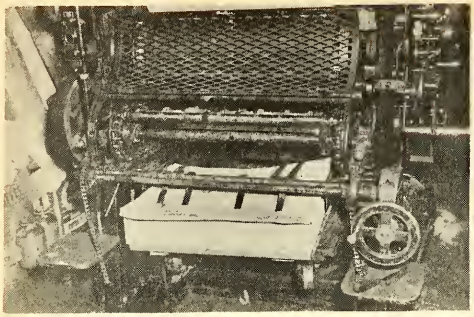
Mexico! The land of gaiety and warmth! The country of open-air market places and senoritas with flashing eyes! The last stronghold of wild, clashing color and enchanted nights!

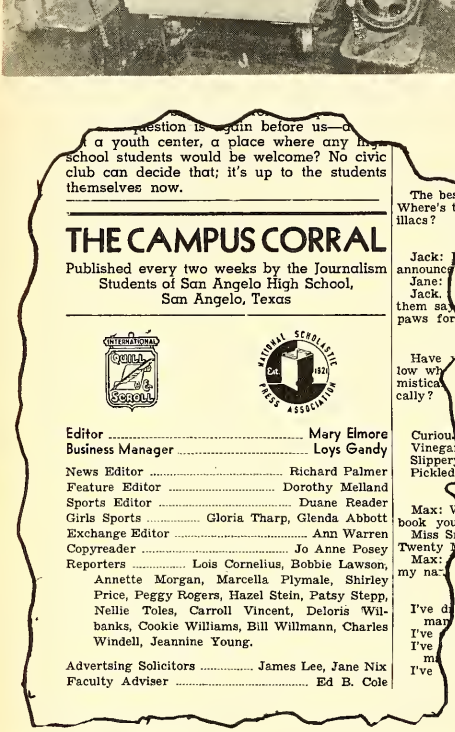
One event that 235 SAHS students and teachers shall never forget is the trip to Mexico City made in October. For weeks after the Texans' return the only 'opener' for a conversation was "have I told you about the ancient cathedrals we passed" or "you should have seen the gorgeous silverwork we saw . . "

The group, which left San Angelo by chartered bus, arrived in Mexico City October 1. In the Mexican capital they entertained themselves by visiting famous places, parading, meeting the governor, and just loafing about the hotel in which they stayed. The main event of the trip was the Bobcat-Mexico City YMCA football game which the Bobcats won 13-6. Many visitors experienced their first earthquake when a slight trembling shook the city.

Among the famous spots viewed by the Bobcat team, band, and boosters were the Floating Gardens at Xochimilco, San Martin, Huetjotzingo, Cholula, the Cathedral at Puebla and the Rosary Chapel, the Hidden Convent of Santa Monica, and the tile and onyx factories. The Angeloans also had a chance to get acquainted with the students from the University of Mexico when the collegians arranged a dance in their honor at the Moracco, their favorite spot.

The final day of their ten-day visit the Bobcats led a parade from the main square of Puebla to the Lastra Hotel for lunch and met the governor of the district. At 6 o'clock Tuesday morning Bobcats and boosters started home by special train. Late Wednesday night they arrived in San Angelo, tired but full of interesting tales to tell of our neighbors to the south.





...uestion is again before us—a ... a youth center, a place where any ... school students would be welcome? No civic club can decide that; it's up to the students themselves now.

THE CAMPUS CORRAL

After working for a while on the Campus Corral, staff members get a special feeling. What they've always regarded as "the school paper" suddenly becomes something close and personal. Just before the printer's deadline, the office is turned into a madhouse of scrambling reporters, seething editors, and over-flowing wastepaper baskets. But all the working and planning and praying go towards one purpose—the four-page, bi-monthly sheet known as the Campus Corral.

This year the Corral reached a new high in journalistic endeavor—an All-American rating from NSPA, newspaper criticizing organization at the University of Minnesota.

For the second time in two years the Corral entered wholeheartedly into the nation-wide tuberculosis school press campaign. Spurred on by the award of the Certificate of Merit last year, the paper again reached the national pinnacle this year. But more satisfying than the sight of the coveted plaque hanging on the walls was the feeling that perhaps through the Corral's fact-revealing stories some cases of the disease will be averted.

SENIOR BANQUET, MARCH 5

The nostalgia and beauty of spring flowers blossoming in an old-fashioned garden provided the theme for the senior banquet held March 5 in the Crystal Ballroom of the Hotel Cactus.

Decorations included peach blossom trees, spring flowers, arches entwined with ivy, and a garden bench. Programs were of pastel colors and were handpainted by members of the class. Miniature birds and sweet peas were given as favors.

After Mary Frances Holloway furnished music, Master of Ceremonies Clifford Jett presented Boyce Perry, who gave the invocation. A baked turkey plate was then served to 225.

Entertaining the graduating class were Lorene Michalopulos and Sunny Skaggs with a violin duet, "An Old Fashioned Garden"; Charlie Bludworth and Hootie Rutledge's rendition of "A Pretty Girl Is Like A Melody"; senior Melodeers singing "In My Garden", and the reading of the class prophecy by Claude Brown. The seniors concluded the program by singing the school song.

"PRIDE AND PREJUDICE"

"I'M SO HAPPY!" exclaims Marilyn Tabor in a moment of ecstasy. Jimmy Livingstone, Dorothy Ward, and Clyde Moore look on approvingly. The cause for elation was a scene from "Pride and Prejudice," which was presented March 11 in Municipal Auditorium as the annual senior play. Miss Vivian Chenault directed the cast.

ICY LOOKS and haughty words are exchanged by Lorene Michalopulos and Billie Tom Davidson while Lloyd Cope stands by with the dignity suitable to a butler.

GOSSIP AND NEWS form the topic of conversation as Barbara Filleman tells the latest to Louise Smith, Jane Wahlenmaier, and Gloria Tharp.

TIME OUT for Jimmy Livingston and Charles Windell backstage as they anxiously await their cue. Charles portrayed the patient Mr. Bennet

SURROUNDED by women, Claude Brown is ready to exit with two on his arm. The females are Mary Frances Holloway, Carroll Vincent, and Gloria Tharp.

Westerner....1948

"West-er-ner, West-er-ner, buy your Westerner today . . . " Although SAHS students were plagued by reconverted commercials over the public address system during Westerner Week, they helped sell yearbooks. And what could be closer to the heart of a Westerner staff member?

Beginning the year with a firm determination of giving SAHS the best annual ever, staff members never lost sight of their goal—even through agonizing days spent tracking down lost pictures, trimming and pasting up endless supplies of photographs, and ripping up those same paste-ups because of some minor miscalculation.

But the staff can't complain. For every tear shed there's been a laugh laughed. Every moment of despair has been more than wiped out by the appearance of the gold and blue books.

This year's staff has aimed high; only the students can determine whether the mark has been hit.

WHY TEACHERS

GREASEPAINT GERTIE . . . No class could be complete without the girl with the ever-ready compact. Sawyer Pearson demonstrates the glamour puss method while Mrs. Helen Drake stands glowering by. Pat Thompson, Ramona Landon, and Joan Bollinger disapprove, too.

Teachers, since the dawn of learning, have been afflicted with a strange professional malady, pre-mature graying of the hair. It is a well known fact that this condition is caused by continued exposure to pupils. A widely used synonym of pupil is Pest.

Historians have found only one pedagogue who escaped the ravages of the class room with part of his sanity and the original color remaining in his hair. The fellow was beheaded by an irate student. Cases are numerous concerning the murder of innocent pupils by wrathful teachers; those long-suffering people often have every right to commit murder.

SAHS has never experienced violence between teacher and pupil but the age-old habits of the latter are unchanged and as a result a large number of our teachers are seen with graying locks. Our ever-eager cameraman has herewith recorded some of the more prominent reasons for this untimely change of color.

TALKATIVE TESSIE . . The weather, what Sue wore to school, the date that Mary had last night—anything can start off a conversation where John Houston, Clyde Moore, Jane Wahlenmaier, Ann Warren, Joy Wright, and Kenneth Willis are concerned. Miss Martha Brown will tend to the situation as soon as roll is taken.

GET GRAY

COMIC BOOK CARL . . . Not finding Miss Josephine Brown's lectures on American literature to be exciting enough, Harold Manning studies silently a Donald Duck adventure story. Those big English books make a marvelous prop.

CHEATIN' CHARLIE . . . Miss Elizabeth Little descends like a wrathful fury on John Reed and Sadie Coghill. John, normally a fair-and-square student, couldn't resist the temptation that Sadie's shoulder offered.

SLEEPING SAMMY . . . What if Miss Vivian Chenault is pointing out the way to become a great actor and successful orator? Esau Guerrero will read the chapter later—and meanwhile indulge in a light, refreshing slumber. Listening closely is Marilyn Tabor.

LEAP YEAR

The dictionary puts down leap year as "a year of 366 days, in which February has 29 instead of 28 days—the years divisable by four."

There's no romance in the dictionary, but in SAHS there is. This spring, bringing thoughts of love and leap year to our campus, has created no little havoc among the more susceptible.

Love is a wonderful thing but combined with that fateful leap year proposition it assumes awful proportions. The long-suffering males lose what little initiative they had in the matter and take to slinking around corners, dodging any and every girl. The gals, justified in aggression, break out their fangs and go after the prey with tooth and nail. Open season is declared; no holds are barred.

The ensnared boy is subjected to backward dates, proposals complete with bended knee, and exhausting foot races ending with the pursued up a tree surrounded by screaming girls. Leap year is, to say the least, a harrowing experience to a hardened veteran—but to the innocents of our school it is a shattering, unbalancing, devastating nightmare.

One bright spot in the whole gloomy picture (gloomy except for predatory females) is that dreadful leap year comes but once every four years. And won't you be glad when it's gone again for that blissful lull?

That's Dave Marshall up in the tree eyeing those wistful females ready to pounce upon him once he descends. Camped below are Bobbye Perry, Mackie Brown, Loys Gandy, and Sara Baker.

A rose between two thorns is Jimmy Nelson as he is literally torn 'twixt Jane Wahlenmaier and Gloria Glenn. Jimmy's disheveled appearance is due to the fact that the battle had been raging for some time.

"Oh please, R. G.—please! I shall die if you don't say 'yes'!" pleads Patricia Barth during a tender moment with R. G. DeBerry. R. G. refrained from answering until he had finished a tennis doubles and felt more in the mood.

LEARNING AND BURNING

Members of the social ethics class gave three reasons why they signed up for the course; "We want to feel at ease when the boss comes to dinner, be bachelors if we choose and still be able to taste a good, home-cooked meal, and learn what foods are nutritious."

But for whatever reasons they joined, members of the all-male class have proved to be big successes in the kitchen—and even more cooperative than the girls, related Miss Ina Jones, foods instructor.

Established in SAHS two years ago at the boys' request, the course has proved so popular that every semester some must be turned away.

The boys have never quailed at the thought of donning aprons; some have brought their mothers' frilly ones from home in place of the plain aprons provided. Also included in the half-year course is a unit on how to select men's clothing.

Just in case the boss comes to dinner someday, social ethics boys learn the do's and don'ts of table manners. Wayne Warren, Douglas Yount, Seeley McCleery, and Odus Richardson concentrate on the proper way to balance a spoon.

That salad dressing might well be made of gold, judging from the tense attitude of Eddie Mee and Roy Martin. In the background, Walter Thomson and Boyce Perry clean up the mess they've made.

It's a delicate operation when Wayne Warren, Jim Hasty, and Bobby Garner try their talents at a lucious dish. Odus Richardson and Otis Lieber look on with a fascinated air.

IN A STUDENT'S LIFE

There is no student in SAHS that the Westerner staff could name and say "here is the typical student." Each pupil is an individual with his own habits, personality, and character.

But about all students' days there is a certain similarity. This the eye of the camera has attempted to record. All told, a typical day in a student's life should go something like this:

RISING—it's a terrific task to leave that soft bed, but the clock calls and will not be stilled. School is the one inevitable issue that must be faced five days a week. The students, though resigned to the fact, can never leave bed without a struggle.

OFF TO SCHOOL—In buses, automobiles, motor scooters and on foot they converge on school. Drowsiness has usually fled by this time.

STUDYING—like ham is to eggs, like cabbage is to corned beef, studying is to school. Most scholars 'buckle down' when they realize escape is impossible.

A TYPICAL DAY

REFRESHMENTS—Any time of the day is the perfect time to squeeze in a coke, a candy bar and gossip. Home room period usually finds the cafeteria filled with 'teen-agers drowning their sorrows in drink.

DATING—About sundown high school students leave home again and converge on the town in a great engulfing tide. A date nearly always means a movie and food afterwards.

BEDTIME—Back to that soft bed again. It's been a strenuous day, crammed full and brimming over with activities. But eight hours of deep, dreamless slumber and another day dawns—a day in which almost the same actions and words are repeated as the day before. But could anyone call this monotonous?

NOON DAY ANTICS

During noon hour SAHS Joes and Jennies try to forget about tests, homework, and report cards—most of them, that is. With a bakery on the corner, drinks and candy bars in the cafeteria, and soft grass to recline upon, only the more zealous take advantage of the hour to study.

One merit of the brief interlude is that everybody has a chance to catch up on the local gossip. The who, what, why, where, and when of school life means a lot to the average 'teen-ager. After reflecting on the school side, some are apt to switch to the "have you heard that marvelous new crooner that comes on . . .", or "Betty Grable's hair is not natural—my movie mag says . . ." type.

Many are too tired after a hectic morning's bout with "teachers who just don't understand me" and slumber peacefully through the idle hour's chatter. Others find relaxation in walking, fighting, holding hands, or just soaking up Old Sol's rays.

To all those lazy, blissful people this page is dedicated. May you spend many more hours as tranquil as these!

HOBBY CLUBS

"I used to shudder when home room period rolled around every morning," reminisced one sophomore, "but now I can hardly wait until that time each Wednesday."

A 'brand new thing' in SAHS, hobby clubs, have proved their worth already. With interested teachers serving as guides, 'teen-agers have found new fields of activity. Enjoying an extra-large enrollment, the bridge, chess, and forty-two clubs were organized purely for enjoyment. Most members of the photography club joined eager to learn the mysteries of the darkroom and the intricate workings of the camera. But all students joined a club of their own choosing with one thing in common—to learn and/or enjoy a hobby.

Hobby clubs and their sponsors include the following: Books for Teen-agers, J. Brown; Photography, Cole; Embroidery, O'Neal; Dolls, Epps; Coins, Hillyer; Tropical Fish, Bishop; Forty-two, Gaskin; Astronomy, Earle; Bridge, Floyd, Vinson; Leather Tooling and Beadwork, Curry; Stamp Collecting, Barrett; Picture Post Cards, Fahrenbruch; Chess, Shaver; Music Appreciation, Humbert; Knitting, Fisk; Foreign Countries, Smith; Wild Life, Dorrance, Kinsey, Reinarz; Rifles, Reinarz; Skeet, Reinarz; A.V.S. and Radio, Poteet; Volleyball, Molen-Pye; Basketball, Molen-Pye; Skating, Archery, Tennis, Bowling, Molen-Pye; Folk-dancing, Emerson; and Table Tennis, Molen-Pye.

EARN WHILE YOU LEARN

In the process of getting a high school education, they're earning their own money and becoming valuable assets to the community.

That's one incentive for students joining Distributive Education and Trades and Industries classes in SAHS. Trades and Industries, taught by Mr. L. K. Kinsey, furnishes opportunities for specialized training. His pupils, who attended regular classes in the morning, work from one o'clock until closing time at such occupations as laboratory technicians, secretarial workers, nurses' aids, air mechanics, draftsmen, and librarians.

Mr. Roy Reinarz instructs Distributive Education students in the fields of wholesale, retail, and service selling. Members of the class, employed half-days by local businessmen, receive valuable training in various branches of merchandising, publicity, finance, operation, and personnel.

Included in the courses of study are instructions on how to make a good impression on a prospective employer; how to dress and speak during an interview; and development of a better personality; personal appearance, and the fundamentals of getting along with people.

SAHS is proud of its vocational courses, and for good reason. Comparatively a "new thing", the classes have enabled hundreds of students to enter into a competitive world with excellent training and the necessary qualifications.

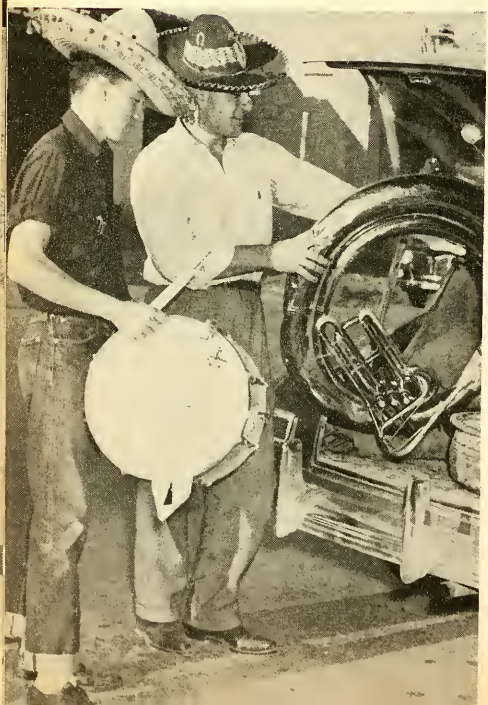
ODD 'N ENDS



MEMO TO ED B. COLE, PUBLICATIONS DIRECTOR:

Because you shudder at the thought of dedications beginning "we the staff dedicate", we'll start out differently. What we're trying to say is this: we—the editorial and business staffs—honestly appreciate the help you've given us. A less patient man would have exploded at some of our antics; amid the chaos of lost pictures, misplaced copy, a stubborn camera and all the other headaches that make up a yearbook, you've maintained order.

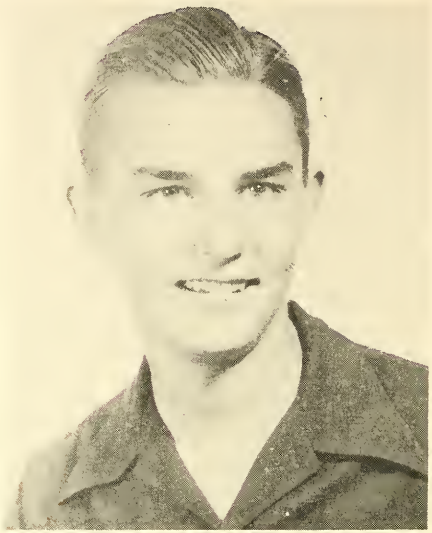
If the students acclaim this as the best Westerner ever, we'll naturally glow with pride. We know, though, that without your guidance we might have floundered in mid-stream. Perhaps sometimes those inevitable puns affected us strangely, but they helped smooth out the rough spots.

With these thoughts in mind, Mr. Cole, is it any wonder we selected you as the person to whom we wanted to dedicate the 1948 Westerner?

Very sincerely,

THE 1948 WESTERNER STAFF

IN MEMORIAM



Paul Toby Campbell, Jr.

IT is in memory of Paul Toby Campbell, Jr., that the Westerner staff dedicates this page. The junior class lost a valuable member when Toby was killed accidentally last February 21.

YES,

A SCHOOL IS PEOPLE . . .

And an integral part of the community it serves.

This school-community relationship is a mutual relationship, built on mutual service and returns.

Here in San Angelo this association has been particularly happy. One of its more tangible forms of expression is the outstanding support given the Westerner by San Angelo businessmen.

It is because of this support in the form of advertising that the Westerner is possible. It is also because of this support that the Westerner staff can add, "A community is people. And in San Angelo, WHAT people!"
